

What do I need to get started?

Let's begin with some absolute essentials! These are required items that you will not be allowed onto the playing field without. Ensure you have these or you will not be able to play!

- Full seal eye protection rated to ANSI Z87+ or greater impact standard. Eye protection must not have gaps or holes which may allow a BB through. Mesh eye protection is prohibited.
- Hard face/teeth protection required for all players under the age of 18.
- Appropriate boots for a full day outside in varied terrain.
- Suitable clothing/headgear colored appropriately for your faction.
- At least two liters of water to begin the day with a refillable way to carry it.
- Enough food/snacks to keep you fueled for an active day outside.
- An approved airsoft replica with power source and empty magazines.
- Flashlight and/or night vision equipment for night portion of game.
- A watch or other timekeeping device in order to accurately track "downed" times.
- A medical card with your name, any relevant medical conditions or medications, and emergency contact information clearly written. Keep this dry and legible via lamination or a plastic bag! Please keep any medications you may need throughout the day on your person!

In addition to these required items, our staff has curated a list of recommended items which can help you to get the most out of your day on the airsoft field.

- Suitable load carriage solution to keep all equipment on your person at all times.
- Anti-fog solution, anti-fog wipes, or anti-fog fan system.
- Extra batteries/gas for replicas, flash lights, optics, cameras, and phones.
- ACE type bandages or MilSim mock tourniquets for using the revive system.
- A speed loader and extra empty magazines or feeding devices.
- A sidearm or backup replica to bring into the field with you.
- Trash bags in order to help keep the Platoon respawn point tidy and ready to move.
- Extra socks and extra layers in order to stay dry and comfortable throughout the day!
- Gloves and long sleeves to protect hands from BB strikes, bugs, and shrubbery.
- Radio communications equipment for emergency use, or coordination if within chain of command.
- Bug spray to repel mosquitoes, flies, and ticks.
- Brightly colored "dead rag" to indicate hit status during the day.
- Strobing brightly colored "dead light" to indicate hit status at night.

What should I wear?

Most airsoft players build a “loadout” or series of loadouts over time in order to comfortably wear and carry all necessary gear for airsoft gaming. These loadouts often include a wide variety of camouflage patterns, load bearing vests or chest rigs, and pouches or backpacks which give players easy access to their equipment, water, and food as needed throughout the game. We recommend that you bring gloves, a long sleeve shirt, a ballcap or helmet, and plenty of water!

While gear, boot, glove, and holster color does not matter, players’ base clothing and any hats or helmets must match the colors specified for the Faction the player has signed up to play with!

Like many other airsoft events, Gun Gamers Productions games are rain or shine! Make sure that any cold or wet weather gear matches the color for your selected faction and is of adequate quality and durability to keep you warm and dry.

What should I have for my airsoft replica?

Like loadouts, airsoft guns are extremely customizable inside and out. Most experienced players have a preferred setup they like to use for their airsoft guns depending on their Weapon Class and may upgrade their airsoft guns with a variety of aftermarket parts and accessories. While many airsoft players swear by many assortments of upgraded airsoft guns, the experienced staff from Gun Gamers Productions has found that the best airsoft gun is the airsoft gun that works best for you and works reliably for the duration of an airsoft game day. We do recommend you bring a sling for any airsoft long guns and a quality holster for any handguns, but all attachments are player's choice. You do not need a premium build to be competitive at our events.

The full Gun Gamers Productions Ruleset contains all of our Weapon Classes, energy limits, rate of fire limits, and magazine restrictions! Be sure that your airsoft replica is functional and compliant with all of regulations for your desired Weapon Class as put forth by our insurance and our game design and you will be ready to play with whatever you bring.
